LOCAL NEWS.

Harry Byng, the barber, is writing a book on Hawaii and the Volcano.

Remember that 10 o'clock is the hour for the sale of Queen Emma's relics to-day.

"As usual," a bystander put it to our shipping reporter, "the Kinai had to wait five minutes for Major Cornwell."

This is the day that Levey is going to make the assault on the Sailors' Home. It must be sold and must be removed.

The Bell telephones have been ordered out of all the houses and places of business in which Col. Spreckels has a controlling interest.

Mr. W. C. Sproull is removing his store from Queen street to Fort street, in the Beaver block opposite Messrs. W. G. Irwin & Co.'s offices.

Mr. C. Furneaux, artist, having returned from prolonged explorations of the scenery of Hawaii, is again to be found at his studio on Fort street.

Mr. Shaw, manager of the Pantheon stables, has had the rat with the long curving tusk stuffed. The work was very neatly done by Mr. John Farnsworth, engineer of the Government tug boat Eleu.

Queen Kapiolani left for a visit to Kauai on the steamer Iwalani yesterday, accompanied by Madames Kanoa, Ululani and Kana. Her Majesty was accompanied to the wharf by King Kalakaua and staff.

Lieutenant Graydon of the U. S. Navy, the inventor of a most destructive weapon—the dynamite projectile—which it is believed will revolutionize modern warfare, is a cousin of Professor Alexander of this city.

As the steamer Iwalani was going out yesterday afternoon, a drunken deck passenger, native, fell overboard. A rope was thrown to him, which he caught after swimming out to mid-stream, and he was hauled on board.

In reference to Mr. Saylor's challenge, Mr. J. P. Bowen claims he was only willing to play the professional's brother on even terms. As an amateur he would not think of playing with a professional billiardist without great odds.

A horse belonging to Hon. John A. Cummings ran away with a hack from Queen street yesterday, upsetting the carriage and itself on the stone platform in front of Ashford & Ashford's law office, Merchant street, but without doing much damage.

Hit With a Stick.

Yesterday, while August Leonard, carpenter, was working on the repairs to the schooner Hammonia at the Fish Market, it seems he was bothered by a little native girl named Sally Kauai being in the way. As she would not get out of the way for his telling her to get out, he is thought to have thrown a stick at her, it is thought without intention of doing her any harm. The stick struck her in the back of the head, ranking an ugly cut from which the blood flowed freely. She was taken home in a cab, and Leonard was arrested, but from the police it is learned that he was released on his own recognizance. It is doubtful if the matter will come into Court. Leonard is the man who was acquitted some time ago on a charge of arson, for setting fire to his tenement near Punchbowl.

Police Court.

Yesterday's sitting of this Court was a lengthy one owing to the amount of evidence taken in some cases. Kamaka and Joe Pratos represented the common run of the bibulous fraternity, forfeiting bail of $6 each.

Kiekae aspired successfully to the larger penalty of being drunk in a saloon. After being turned out of the Cosmopolitan several times, he was given in charge of an officer and locked up. Ten dollars and costs were his dues to the peace of Oia Sovereign.

The prosecution was abandoned in the case of M. E. McGurn for assault and battery.

Ioela got 24 hours' hard labor, with $3.50 costs, for disorderly conduct, and Kelikuewa, for resisting the officer that arrested Ioela was given five days, besides a fine of $10 and $130 costs.

Ah Poy, Ah Hook and Ho Poy were charged with assault and battery. The evidence for the prosecution was that they fell on Polianu with sticks, because he returned a bad melon to their store at the corner of Emma and Punchbowl streets. On the other side there was direct evidence that the childlike and bland Celestials did nothing of the kind alleged. They were therefore discharged.

H. Mahalana went on the reef for 12 hours, with costs of $1, for conducting himself disorderly.

LEGISLATIVE SUMMARY.

Yesterday, the hundred and twenty-fifth day began with a report by Mr. Gibson of the following bills as approved by the King: the amendment to the Postal Savings Bank Act; the bill increasing taxation, and that relating to dead letters.

Then the opium bill came up for further consideration. Mr. Brown moved to insert a provision absolutely prohibiting the sale to native Hawaiians. This passed with an amendment proposed by Mr. Thurston extending the prohibition to Japanese.

Dr. Wight moved to further amend by adding "or any other nationality except Chinese," but the motion was lost. Mr. Dickey moved an amendment forbidding more than one sale on any one certificate, but it was voted down, showing that the Government party want to leave the door open to rascality.

On motion of Mr. Thurston the penalty was increased by substituting for the words, "not less than two hundred dollars, and be imprisoned at hard labor for any term not more than two years," the words, "not less than one thousand dollars, and be imprisoned at hard labor not less than two years nor more than ten years." On motion of the same member, for "each tin" was substituted "each container of half a pound."

Mr. Cleghorn moved to increase the stamp duty from one dollar to five dollars, which was lost. Mr. Thurston secured the passage of an amendment imposing the same penalties on the licensee as on the illicit dealer for violations of the law.

Mr. Brown succeeded in having the term of license cut down from four to two years. He moved the indefinite postponement of the enacting clause, which was lost on the following division:

For indefinite postponement—Gibson, Creighton, Dare, Bishop, Dominis, Cleghorn, Wilder, Kuikelani, Bush, S. Parker, Kahi, Brown, Wight, Kalua, Dickey, Thurston—16.

Against—Kanoa, Kae, Kean, Lili-kalani, Baker, Amara, Kaula, Kaulukou, Pahia, Kauhamao, Nahale, Nahinu, Aholo, Kauhau, Richardson, Kaai, Pachaoe, Kana, Palohau—16.

The bill passed and was ordered to be read a third time to-day.

The bill to amend the lean act came up next. An amendment was moved by Mr. Dare, to add to section 4 the following words: "Provided that hereafter no bonded debt shall be incurred nor any bonds issued prior to the maturity of the bonds issued hereunder, unless provision be first made for the payment of bonds issued under and in accordance with the provisions of this act." This acted like a declaration of war by the present bondholder's Ministry against the court party and a very pretty quarrel was only stopped by adjournment.

Supreme Court.

The Court opened at 10 o'clock yesterday morning and adjourned at 2:05. The So Young shooting case was called, the charge being "assault with a deadly weapon." Mr. Antonio Rosa appeared for the Crown, Hon. Paul Neumann for the defense. On motion of the prosecution, the defense consenting, the case was continued until Monday, 18th inst.

An assumpsit case of A. J. Cartwright and others against A. Hoffnung was the only other matter that came up. Mr. H. E. Avery appeared for plaintiffs, Mr. R. F. Bickerton for defendant. On defendant's motion it was ordered that on filing affidavit and interrogatories a commission may issue to Stephen Spencer, of London, England, to take the deposition of defendant.

TRADE POINTERS.

Mr. C. Hammer is just opening a new arrival of goods from California, and it would puzzle any horseman to ask for anything he hasn't got. When everything is properly arranged, particulars of the magnificent invoice will be given the readers of the HERALD.

West, Dow & Co., have received ex S. S. Australia, Music Instruction Books, Folios of Music, Baby Carriages, Whisk Brooms, Diamond Hat Racks, Wagons, Small Stalls, Rustic Frames, Lunch Baskets, Etc.

The steamer Kinai yesterday took nine horses and a mule for Paukua plantation, shipped by Messrs. C. Brewer & Co., agents, and three horses shipped by natives. One of the plantation horses fell off the gang plank into the water, but was caught and hoisted on board by the donkey engine just as its breath was about given out.

Every seat on Emma square was occupied at the full moon concert by the Royal Band last night. The "Liliuokalani" fantasia, with Mr. Michiels' cornet solo playing, took the audience by storm. It was a most enjoyable concert.

Caroline Alice, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Harrison, and grand-daughter of Mr. John Nott, died about three this morning and will be buried at three o'clock this afternoon.

The Best Tonic.

Mr. Henry Billings, Washington, D. C., writes: "I have used your Duffy's Pure Malt Whisky for medicinal purposes. As a tonic I consider it superior to the hundreds of concoctions which are now flooding the land as stimulant liquors."

HONORING A VETERAN.

Presentation by the Fire Department to Mr. John Nott, Past Chief Engineer.

A special meeting of the Board of Representatives of the Honolulu Fire Department was held in the Central Station hall last night. The occasion, that was held in strict confidence by members of the Board and of the press for more than a week, was the presentation of a testimonial to Mr. John Nott, as a recognition of his long services as Chief Engineer. There were present a full attendance of members of the Board, with Mr. C. B. Wilson, Chief Engineer, presiding, besides Messrs. C. E. Williams, George Lucas and J. A. Hassinger, former Chiefs of the Department, other veteran firemen, and officers of the various companies. Unfortunately the intended guest of the evening, Mr. Nott, was detained at home by a case of serious illness in his family.

Mr. Monsarrat, the newly elected foreman of Pacific Hose Company, was cordially received as a member of the Board. Messrs. Lucas, Williams and Monsarrat were appointed a committee to receive the testimonial on behalf of the presentee. The gift was a handsome gilt frame, with interior border, filled with artistic designs and photographs of Mr. Nott, his assistants and officers, and the following inscription in the center:

"Presented in the name of the Honolulu Fire Department to Mr. John Nott, as a slight recognition of his valuable services rendered as Chief Engineer to the Department from 1882 to 1886."

Mr. Nott's picture, labeled "Our Chief," occupies the top center. On either side the element the fireman fights and that used as his ammunition in the battle are represented emblematically, by a happy conception, with pictures artistically drawn of a volcano and a cataract. Flanking the inscription are the pictures of M. D. Monsarrat and Julius Asch, respectively First and Second Assistant Engineers under Mr. Nott. The bottom range contains on the left the picture of Mr. J. W. L. McGuire, Fire Marshal; on the right that of Mr. H. Smith, Secretary of the Board, and in the center a photograph of the Central Station and Bell Tower, the steamer in front with J. C. White and George Townsend, engineer, reclining against it. The figures are of course all in full uniform. Disposed effectively on the plate are firemen's emblems—trumpets, branches, hoses, torches, etc., all very neatly drawn. Loops and festoons representing hose lengths separate the different pictures and surround the inscription. The latter is one of the prettiest specimens of illuminated engraving that has ever been exhibited here, and is the work of Mr. Barnfield, artist. The lettering of names to the pictures in illuminated characters is also artistic in a degree. Mr. Geo. C. Stratemeyer with his skillful pencil assisted in decorating the beautiful memento, that is on the whole, all who have seen it declare as handsome a production of the kind as has ever been seen in Honolulu.

Mr. J. A. Hassinger was selected by the Board to make the presentation, and he performed the pleasant task in the most graceful manner. As a former Chief of the Department himself, he testified to the faithful twenty-two years of service rendered by Mr. Nott. Describing the gift, he said it was a memento that would last when words were forgotten. He proceeded to give an amusing account of the old days of the Department, when the brigade dragged their old-fashioned implements round three or four blocks in time to find their services too late.

Mr. Geo. Lucas, acknowledging the receipt of the testimonial in behalf of the presentee, thanked Mr. Hassinger and the Department for their recognition of the services of a fine and worthy officer, who as a mechanic and a gentleman of this community stood in the front rank.

Mr. Williams followed in similar terms of appreciation of the gift, and expressed his sorrow for Mr. Nott's absence and its cause. He was associated with Mr. Nott in the brigade many years ago. Many members might not know that he was himself connected with the Fire Department for a quarter of a century. It was not necessary for him to add to the remarks of Mr. Hassinger and Mr. Lucas, and if the former would take back what he said about the times when muscle was the power instead of steam he would not say any more.

Mr. Hassinger—I will take it back, but the houses always burned down. (Laughter.)

Mr. Williams—No. More houses have been burned down since steam came. I would like to ask if they ever let a ship burn in the harbor. (Cheers from the old timers.)

Mr. Hassinger—No; they always scuttled her. (Laughter.)

Mr. Williams concluding by again thanking the Board on behalf of Mr. Nott.

Mr. Monsarrat also gave words of thanks, saying the testimonial showed that the Department appreciated Mr. Nott's services. He had worked under that gentleman and had always been in good relations with him and could testify to his devotedness and efficiency as Chief Engineer.

The Chief Engineer wound up this part of the programme with a short speech, saying he had served from 1865 to the present day under ex-Chiefs Williams, Hassinger, Lemon, Lucas and Nott, and adding his testimony to that of the previous speakers regarding the services of the man whom they were convened to honor.

An adjournment was then made for refreshments, a fine collation waiting demolition on a table extending nearly the length of the hall. The spread, with abundance of ice cream at the back of it, was furnished by Mr. H. J. Hart, of the Elite Parlors. After the covers were metaphorically removed, a list of regular and impromptu toasts were honored seriatim.

"His Majesty the King" was proposed by the Chief, and Col. Boyd responded, making reference to the King's honorable career as a fireman and the interest still taken by His Majesty in the Department.

"The Chief of the Department," proposed by Mr. Ordenstein, was greeted with, "For he's a jolly good fellow."

"The Ex-Chiefs," was responded to by Messrs. Williams, Lucas and Hassinger, all of whom gave interesting reminiscences of the Department in former days. Mr. Williams joined the Department in 1857 or 1858. On a visit to the East he saw a steam fire engine for the first time, and returning advocated the procuring of one here. Steam was adopted they all knew with what benefit to the Department and the community. He had received, on a similar occasion to this, a medal containing $80 worth of gold and $36 diamonds, and the presentation speech of Dr. Hutchinson, Minister of the Interior, engrossed, was kept in his house in San Francisco and would not be parted with for $100,000.

Mr. Lucas in his response gave His Majesty the chief credit for securing the adoption of steam engines here, and referred with pride to a testimonial given himself in the shape of a gold watch and chain, by the Department, the present Judge Preston, then Attorney General, making the presentation, about four years ago. It was the speaker who as Chief had received the first two steam engines six years ago.

Mr. Hassinger held that the Department had yet to make its history, by the conduct of the rising generation of firemen. Referring appreciatingly to the services of the Chinese firemen, he concluded by proposing the health of "China Fire Company," to which Mr. Wong Kim, foreman, responded fittingly.

"The Firemen's Best Friend, the Press," was proposed by Mr. Hassinger, and briefly responded to by Messrs. Gilbert of the Advertiser, Logan of the HERALD, and Hill of the Bulletin in the order given.

"The Assistant Engineers," was responded to by Messrs. Asch and Hustace.

"The Ladies," proposed by Mr. R. More, who referred to the distribution of coffee at fires by their fair friends, was responded to by Mr. Ordenstein.

"The Relic of the Old Fire Bell," reposing in the Police Station, was proposed by Mr. Hassinger and duly honored.

Mr. More sang, "The Bonnie Lassies," and the pleasant gathering dispersed singing "Auld Lang Syne," after giving three cheers for the Secretary and Treasurer, Mr. Henry Smith.
